DR. HULL'S TRUSS,

FOR the restel and cure of Hernia or Run ture. This Surgical instrument is now well known to the Medical profession, and so west known to the Medical profession, and so extensively used by unfortunate sufferers labouring under the disease of Hernia, that a pattern lar account of its mechanical construction of its surgical effects is thought unnecessary.—
The subjoined remarks from Physicians and Surgeons of high respectability in our country, are the results of much practical experience in the use and application of this truss.

James Thatcher, M. D. author of the Mod.

1830.

James Thatcher, M. D. author of the Mod ern Practice, in his second edition, under the subject of Hernia, remarks *Dr. Hull is exclusively entitled to the credit of first adapting the true Surgical principle for the radical cure of Hernia. He happily conceived the idea that the pad of the Truss should be so constructed as slimply to support the muscular fibres around state in which they are maintained in perfect health. Unless this be artained the parts can never recover their natural tone, whatever may be the degree of pressure applied."

Samuel Ackerly, M. D. in his excellent edition of 'Hopper's Medical Dictionary,' under the head of 'Truss,' after enumerating the evils resulting from the trace of the defection truster.

by his improvement in the construction of truses. has rendered it certain that all recent rupures and those of children, may be permanent y cured, and those of old people and of iong standing, may, in many cases, also be reme died. The pad of Dr. Hull's Truss is concave and not convex; and hence the raised circular margin, by proper adaptation, presses upon the sides of the hernial opening, and tends to close the aperture and cure the hernia.

M. L. Knapp, M. D. late Physician and Surgeon to the Baltimore General Dispensary. in a communication to Doctor Hull, says: 'I have applied your trusses in several hundred cases during the last three years. A great many upon whom I have applied your trusses. THE PERSONAL ESTATE.

The operation and effect of this Truss is directly the reverse of all Trussée heretafore in use; which being convex, tended to enlarge the dimensions of the rupture opening. The second presentation of this design to the Episcopal public, is owing to no want of encouragement, or anticipation of difficulty in its accomplishment. A considerable delay in the execution of the former proposals, deemed necessary for the maturing of the original design, and for ascertaining exactly the nature of the wants which the publication is intended to supply, left the Trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Press, free to alter, and, if circumstances should warrant, to enlarge their plan. Communications from several quarters, and from the most respectable sources, produced by this delay, have led to the conviction, upon which the Trustees now propose to act that a plan far more comprehensive than that first presented, is called for by our Church in this country. A mere republication of works of English and American divines was then contemplated. It is now intended, by the introduction of every thing necessary to adapt the works selected to the circumstances of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, to give the publication on the character of an original work, and, at the same time, to extend its design so far as to enhance the works of the primitive Christian writestand produced to works and, at the same time, to extend its design so far as to PLAN OF THE WORK.

THE CORONATION OF INEZ DE CASTRO. There was music on the midnight;
. From a royal fans it roll'd, And a mighty bell, each pause between, Sternly and slowly toll'd. Gtrange was their mingling in the sky, It hush'd the listener's breath;

For the music spoke of triumph high, The lonely bell, of death. There was burrying through the midnight; A sound of many feet; But they fell with a muffled fearfulness, Along the shadowy street;

And softer, fainter, grew their tread, As it near'd the Minster-gate, Whence broad and solemn light was shed From a scene of royal state

From a scene of royal state
Full glow'd the strong red radiance
In the centre of the knave,
Where the folds of a purple canopy
Sweep down in many a wave;
Leading the marble pavement old
With a weight of gorgeous gloom;
For something lay 'midst their fretted gold,
Like a shadow of the fomb.
And within that rich pavillion,
High on a glettering throne,
A woman's form sat silently,
'Milst the glare of light alone,
Her jewell'd robes fell strangely still—
The drapery on hier breast
Seem'd with no pulse beneath to thrill,
So stone-like was its rest.
But a peal of lordly music

But a peal of lordly music
Shook e'en the dust below,
When the burning gold of the diadem,
Was set on her pallid brow!
Then died away that haughty sound,
And from the encircling hand,
Stept Prince & Chief, landst the hush profound,
With hemige to her hand.
Why pass'd a faint cold shuddering
Over each martisl frame,

Over each martial frame,
As one by one to touch that hand,
Noule and leader came?
Was not the sculed aspect fair?
Indeed the native doon hair,
sit on the pale still face?

sit on the pale still face?

Death! Death! canst thou he lovely
Unto the eve of life?

Is not each pulse of the quick high breast
With thy cold men at strife?
—It was a strange and fearful sight,
The crown upon that head,
The glorious robes and the bluze of light,
All gather'd round the dead!

And beside her stood in silence,
One with a brow as pale,
And white lips rigidly compress'd,
Lest the strong heart should fail;
King Pedro with a jealous eye,
Watching the honour done,
By the land's flower and chivalry,
To her, his martyr'd one.

To ner, his martyr d one.

But on the face he look'd not,
Which once his star had been;
To every form his glance was turn'd,
Save of the breathless queen;
Tho' something, won from the grave's embrace
Of her beauty still was there,
Italiues were all of that shadowy place,
'Twas not for him to bear.

Twas not for him to bear.
Alas! the crown, the sceptre,
The treasures of the earth,
An I the priceless love that pour'd those gifts,
Affike of wasted worth!
The rites are close!—bear back the dead,
Unto the chamber deep,
Lay down again the roys! head,
Dust with the dust to sleep.

A requiem sad and slow,

As the mourners through the sounding sisle,
In dark procession go,
And the ring of state, and the starry crown,
And all the rich array

Are borne to the house of alence down,
With her that queen of clay.

And textessis and forme. And tearlessly and firmly,
King Pedro led the train—
But his face was wrapt in his folding robe,
When they lower'd the dust again.

'Tis hush'il at last, the tomb above, Hymns die, and steps depart, Who call'd the strong as death, O Love? Mightier thou wert and art! *Don Pedro of Portugal, after his accession to the kingdom, had the body of the murdered linez taken from the grave, solemnly enthroned and crowned.
